

Anthony Gerardo Pino Charaja / Collaborator Member

Anthony is a biologist and a lover of nature and photography. He's also particularly interested in carnivores. He was a participant in several projects researching biodiversity and conservation in different habitats and conditions. Anthony's attention is currently focused entirely on the Andean cat; he is fascinated by this species and its environment. Anthony believes that the mountains and this elusive cat still have many secrets to discover.